Oswald "Oz" Mondejar

Oz Mondejar is the Senior Vice President of Mission and Advocacy for Partners Continuing Care, Inc. ("PCC"), the non-acute care services division of Partners HealthCare. Oz works at the intersection of policy, advocacy and media; defining PCC's core values and leveraging the organization's resources to maximize positive social impact - locally, nationally and internationally. He also serves as the Vice President of Workforce Development at Partners HealthCare.

Prior to joining Partners HealthCare in 2001, Oz led the New England Region recruitment program for the Social Security Administration and worked as a human resources executive in several different industries including manufacturing, hospitality and finance. Internationally recognized for his expertise on accessibility, disability rights and workplace accommodation, Oz serves on several non-profit boards and is an advisor to others.

Oz has received numerous awards, including the Partners for Youth with Disabilities Christopher Dunne Award, Hispanics Executives Making an Impact in Boston 20 on the Move, the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind Employment Leadership Award, the Disability Law Center Leadership Award, and the White House Champion of Change Award. In January of 2015, Oz was one of only seventeen experts nationally selected for a two-year term by U.S. Secretary of Labor Thomas E. Perez to serve on a new Advisory Committee on Increasing Competitive Integrated Employment.

Colleen Moran

Colleen Moran serves as the Director of Workforce Programs at Spaulding Rehabilitation Network (SRN), part of the post-acute care services division of Partners HealthCare. SRN provides a spectrum of post-acute care including rehabilitation hospitals, long term care, skilled nursing facilities and multiple outpatient centers. Colleen also works with Partners HealthCare Talent Management in the areas of diversity & inclusion and university relations.

Colleen joined Partners in 2001 and has over 25 years of experience in Human Resources in healthcare, high-tech manufacturing and financial services. She holds Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees from Boston College.

Colleen has a long-standing interest in advocating for the employment for people with disabilities and participates in a variety of related boards, committees and activities. She has presented both locally and nationally on disability and workforce development issues. Colleen leads several initiatives including Project SEARCH and Working Partners, a public/private partnership with the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission focused
